

In the last days of America's storied existence secularists gained control over the institutions that shaped the nation's values. Gradually, all ideas regardless of their origin were deemed co-equal. Rights were diminished to self definition and the segmenting of society around collective grievances became government's primary tool by which tyranny found its hold. Absolutes were ridiculed, relativism was elevated to prominence and lauded by elites. The relationship between liberty and faith was eroded, giving way to secularism. During this time a new band of patriots found footing and began the process of restoring the republic to its place of strength predicated on the inseparable link between liberty and faith. Welcome to iVoteAmerica.

In CONGRESS,
July 4, 1776

When in the Course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.

That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security.

The Colonization of Man

Molesting Our Sacred Hearts

Israel's King Jehu leads a procession bringing tribute to Assyrian King Shalmaneser - 853 BC #4

Donald Teel, Editor
August 1, 2016

Within each of us there resides a unique place of God-created authenticity. It is our soul and the center of our personal sanctity.

We hang on a thin thread that separates our uniqueness from dependency.

Since the earliest unfolding of governments, the elite have focused their attention on colonizing the secret chambers of our individuality. Like sand blowing across a hot desert tyranny peels away the top soil of our hearts, until it has stripped away the final protective layer of personal self-worth.

Once within us the leeches of government attach themselves to our persona allowing them to create insecurity by feeding on our apprehension and fear.

This molestation of our sacred hearts eventually cripples our natural hunger for liberty.

Tyrannical governments always seek the colonization of man's soul, for in so doing they establish free course to come in and to go out at will.

In order to complete the colonization, we are baited with the promise that something great can be given to us that is superior to what we ourselves might and can create.

Perhaps the most diabolical tool of tyranny is the slow but steady propaganda designed to re-educate our minds, convincing us that we can no longer be left alone to trust ourselves. We are told in a multitude of ways that we cannot possibly cope without colonization. We are too wild, opinionated and unpredictable.

Like the ancient mariners who set sail to colonize and ultimately control new found territory, ours is a government advancing itself without restraint, hell-bent in its quest for dominance, looking for clever ways to plunge its flag into every crevice of our vulnerable spirits.

Tyranny is not just a result of chaotic government; it is both cause and effect, knowing no difference.

A government without restraint is one that will turn every real or invented crisis into an opportunity to shove its barbed spear deeper and deeper into our sense of individual and collective esteem.

Once we are hooked, the leeches of tyranny will suck out every last ounce of freedom.

We must never lower the drawbridge that would allow access to our souls. To do so will insure the ultimate molestation of our sacred hearts.

REDISTRIBUTION. Permission is granted for reprint of this article in its entirety with credits. Complete quotes may be used. For information contact ivoteamerica@gmail.com

US CONSTITUTION
Amendments 1, 2, 10

First Amendment

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

Second Amendment

A well regulated Militia, being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear Arms, shall not be infringed.

Tenth Amendment

The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people.

